Back to School Anxiety

Signs of Anxiety

- Changes in eating habits
- Sleep disturbance
- Clingy behavior
- Meltdowns or tantrums
- Headaches or stomachaches
- Nail biting, hair twirling, skin picking
- Increased crying
- Increased irritability
- Avoid normal daily activities
- Social isolation

How to deal with anxiety

- Get to school early in case there is a meltdown
- Listen to your student's concerns and do not provide blanket statements, "You will be fine."
- Earlier bedtime to ensure adequate sleep
- Balanced meals and nutritious snacks in case eating diminishes
- Allow more time in the mornings so student is not rushed or late to class
- Role play potential concerns
- Make sure you don't show your children when you are feeling overwhelmed or feel anxious

Reading Suggestions for back-to-school

- * "Thank You, Mr. Falker" by Patricia Polacco
- * "Junkyard Wonders" by Patricia Polacco

Parenting Tips: Alternate ways to ask, "How was your day?"

- ⇒ How did you help somebody today?
- ⇒ How did somebody help you today?
- ⇒ Tell me one thing that you learned today.
- ⇒ When were you the happiest today?
- ⇒ When were you bored today?
- ⇒ Who in your class do you think you could be nicer to?
- ⇒ If you got to be the teacher tomorrow what would you do?
- ⇒ How was today different from yesterday?
- ⇒ What's one word that you would use to describe today?

Celebrate Attendance Awareness Month!

Ways to help your learner attend regularly

- ⇒ Create a regular bed time schedule and morning routine
- ⇒ Lay out clothes and pack backpacks the night before
- ⇒ Avoid doctor's appointments during the day and extended vacations when school is in session
- ⇒ Don't let your child stay home unless truly sick (a stomachache or headache could be a sign of anxiety)
- ⇒ If your child is anxious, talk to teachers, counselors, or other parents for advice on how to make child comfortable and excited about learning
- ⇒ Develop back-up plan to get students to school if something comes up
